Hash Trash

Hare: Aussie

Venue: Fisherman's Lawn, Marine Parade, Labrador

After last's week's warmer weather, winter returned with a vengeance with a cool breeze blowing in the park. Kwakka and Hard On were handling the sign on usual whilst Badger had some more tasty jams for sale. Missing Link was back for his fifth run in a row and Fuller Shit also made a return.

At 6pm GM Commander Head called the pack to order and called in the hare. Aussie proceeded to give the run/walk instructions and announced that he had to reset the trail due to the wet weather the previous day. He said there would be food on the run so hashers were advised not to short cut. The runners and walkers headed off together before the big pack of walkers headed across the GC highway into Nind Street. At the same time the runners appeared to be having trouble finding the trail which was a sign of things to come. Back on the walk, Weekly took a fall negotiating the rise from the road to the footpath in Nind Street and Blue Card was accused of pushing him as he was the closest hasher to him at the time. From there it was into Scarborough Street, Fig Tree Lane, Railway Street, Norman Street, Little Norman Street and across the highway into the Broadwater Tourist Park. Here we were treated to a feed of 'little boys', canapes and Gluhwein before various hashers were tasked with taking chiller bags back to the venue. Back home corn chips and salsa dips were on offer and the contents of the cooler bags - beef patties, sausages and chopped onions were placed on the BBQs. KB, Sir Ferrett, STD and Sir Botcho took on food preparation and cooking duties. A quick count of the beef patties and the sausages indicated it would be a close call on the nosh. Dr Death was first in on the run closely followed by Iceman and Fanny Charmer. STD had the walk at 2.5km and Fanny Charmer measured the run at 5.2 km.

Mains were a choice of a bread roll with beef pattie or a sausage sandwich with lettuce, tomato, cheese, beetroot, onions and the usual sauces. Dessert was a choice of various tarts and cakes.

Commander Head called the pack to form a circle and noted the positive impact of reducing weekly runs to $15 on numbers. SPV reported that on his arrival he had to negotiate two carloads of vagrants whilst parking his vehicle. Returning runners Aussie, Fuller Shit and Circumference were called to the circle.

Ice Man gave the run report and noted there were a number of misleading checks and a lack of markings. 7/10.

Fuller Shit gave the walk report, noting the 'little boys' and canapes. 7/10.

STD gave the nosh report, reporting that he counted 24 sausages, 30 beef patties, 36 bread rolls and a loaf of bread. 7.5/10

Down downs for Aussie, Fuller Shit and Circumference. The GM handed the circle over to RA Shat who reported that he had been conducting interviews for two altar boys in the usual location.

Brewtus was called in for wearing what looked like a pair of slippers but they turned out to be a pair of slip-on runners. He protested that they were three years old however the RA decided he should skull from one of them.

Next in was Magician for deciding to take his better half to the same caravan park that Aussie was currently holidaying in. Down down for Magician.

SPV gave an update on Truckie who walked out of the GCUH and headed home via the Light Rail and bus. At the time he was carrying a heavy bag due to it containing a bottle of Penfolds Bin 389. Due to Fuck All being away and not being allowed to drive, Truckie had a somewhat dubious idea to ride his bike down to the local fish and chip shop. Fanny Charmer noted that Truckie's helmet had definitely done its job and probably saved his life in his recent fall.

Ah Pisto was called into the circle. Evidently Ah Pisto had usurped Fanny Charmer's role as official hash food taster. KB was next in for stopping the GM from getting out of his car by parking too close to him. The GM noted that he was there first. Down downs followed for Ah Pisto and KB.

Aussie called in Missing Link. Evidently Aussie bought all the ingredients to make a wonderful cake however, when it came to the part to add the Grand Marnier, it was found that Missing Link had drunk the contents of the bottle. Down down for Missing Link.

Cum Smoke noted that he had been dobbed in for smoking on the job and wondered what happened to the 'what happens on the hash, stays on the hash' rule.

SPV called all Bulldog supporters into the circle. None were forthcoming so he related the tale of watching the game at his place with Miscarriage with the defibrillator close at hand. He then related a tale of Miscarriage organising a family trip to New Zealand with flights going to both Auckland and Christchurch. Now as most of you know Christchurch is not a suburb of Auckland. In another holiday disaster, Miscarriage had organised a family trip to Tasmania only to have him being required to appear in court for three days. Down Down for SPV.

Rug had a charge for Aussie for corrupting Gold Coast hashers by encouraging them to eat 'little boys'. Down down for Aussie.

Aussie then described how he and Magician were walking down the street from the Cecil Hotel in Southport after the Splinter Lunch on Friday. As they passed a phone box the phone rings and he picked up and answered "Anal Sex Assistance Line". The voice on the other end asked "Is this Simon" to which he replied "No, this is the Anal Sex Assistance Line". Aussie had always wanted to use that line. Down down for Aussie and back to the GM.

Prick of the Week

Current Prick of the Week Magician was called in. Magician advised that he had left the prick at home again. Held over until next week.

STD

1. Appears that Snow White is missing a couple of Dwarfs; Sneezy is in quarantine and Dopey is running the state.

2. What do you call a bullet-proof Irishman; Rick O'Shea

S Bends

There is this old couple who keep on forgetting things. They went to the doctor and he advised that every time there is something important then you should write it down.

They come back home and the wife says "I'd like some ice cream".

She says "You should write it down". "No" he says "I'll remember it".

"With strawberries" she says. "You should write it down". "No" he says "I'll remember it".

"With cream" she says. "You should write it down". "No" he says "I'll remember it".

He goes to the kitchen and is gone for 20 minutes, and out he comes with bacon and eggs. The wife is absolutely disappointed and says to him "Where's my toast?"

The GM called on Aussie to close the circle. After a visit by Security to find out what we were doing in the park, it was time to head home to be met by a very busy scene at Mermaid Beach/Nobbys with prework for the Light Rail.
