Put on your hot pants baby, cos we're going out tonight!

A MUST ATTEND tribute run to celebrate 1956, the year of the birth of Rockn'Roll.

How old were you in 1956? Well raid the wardrobe and put on your blue suede shoes and drainpipe trousers, velvet-collar jackets, and oh yes don't forget your bicycle chains and cut-throats just in case there's any bover wiv the local gang!

Just click here to look at these songs that hit number one in 1956...

Heartbreak Hotel, Don't Be Cruel, Hound Dog, Blue Suede Shoes and, wait for it... my first film star sweetheart Doris Day with Whatever Will Be Will Be (Que Sera Sera).

Yes, Rockin'Rabbit will be there to blast your eardrums with all these and more...

And that's not all...cos there's more: Food like it used to be; hot music; riotous behaviour and anything else we can stir up on the night.

So bring your camera and those sweet memories – because we need you there to ensure the correct 1956 demographic!!!

Teenagers under 50 must show their driving licences!
