

What a humdinger location Magician found as the starting point for this week's run. I ambled up towards the brand new basketball courts at Varsity Lakes hearing the noisy yet dulcid tones of the assembled hashers.

Being Prick of the Week, Hash Flash of the Week, Scribe of the Week, I was keen to gather any intelligence in my quest to locate the next Prick. It wasn't hard to find...

Hare Magician was already busy "stirring the pot" of that old staple British fare "savory mince" me thinks. He was interrupted by the grand PooBah to announce the run details. But Magician had arranged a guest artist fella to show off his skipping skills, leaving us all flabbergasted..

The run/walk I believe was the same route, initially heading over to the central court of Bond University. Visitor Mikipedia said this was the first time he'd been to the University. His only degree was from the University of Hard Knocks. It was at this point the front walkers were found literally to be LOST. A map was eventually handed over but that only deepened the mystery of where to go from there. Mad Mike took control leading us on to the boardwalk. Then various shortcutting bastards, including your scribe, led the walkers home.

It was a hot and steamy night by the time the runners returned. Everyone conversed nicely except for S.Ferrett seen hiding in a corner playing Solitaire on his iPhone! Mad Mike had his plate out ready to line up extra early. Obviously he was keen for an early night so he could watch "Married at First Sight" . Birthday boy S.Prince (72 today) was wearing a "Cyprus" T Skirt ..oops Shirt which I swear was non hash attire. Shat was seen scurrying here and there searching for his hash bag. Thanks to all the unhelpful comrades for finding it.

Iceman was seen carrying a long lean backpack which looked remarkably similar to an archery set bag. Rumour was after the circle he was on his way to Ballpoint's house seeking some form of retribution...

Hopalong Miscarriage was reported as last to pay.

Late Final Extra: K.B. turned up late as usual. Can't be sure he even paid. Kwakka please check!

Magician served up a lovely beverage called Gazpacho, Spanish I believe.. I took it, then left it. But others commented it was actually OK!

The deluxe main course of hotted up savory mince was generously served. Kwakka said the meal exceeded his wildest expectations. S.Blackie said he likes something a bit more edible but a giant step for all mankind! S.Jo said it was surprisingly nice. Rug said thankfully the dog mince from Aldi is fit for human consumption?? The soggy corn chips in the crunchy coleslaw were tasty.

Dessert

was the alway decadent Aldi lemon/lime pie with Magician's secret recipe ice-cream. Frothy but nice!

Master of Ceremonies for the Circle was Sir (Daffy Duck) 2 Dogs.

S.Bent Banana gave a run report. Someone else whose name escapes me gave a walk report. All kudos to Magician until it was reported he hadn't even set the run.

Charges by Brewtus were too numerous to mention but you can be certain that it involved S.Prince, Miscarriage and a brewery. Iceman was accused of having no ice..

Ferrett gave us an update on Truckie's health. More visits to the specialist are required. But he gets to keep his feet up for 6 weeks. You can't beat that. Get well soon Truckie. We miss you!

Prick of the Week Jigsaw, still on his campaign' to turn the Prick into digital format, wore a iPad prick and has updated the CD pornos to USB format with all new videos. Suddenly everyone was keen to get the POW! But the award went to Poxo mainly 'cos he's been coming to hash for 4 years and has never had the Prick.

Jokes aside from S.Ferrett, Iceman and S.Bends.

Note: The S in S.Bends does not indicate he is a Sir. He won't be until 2172 on my estimation.

A great night. Thanks for coming. See you next time.

On on

Jiggy

Thanks Slug for your donated shots!